ARREST THREE PICKPOCKETS

Officers Wilson, Shealer and Mead
Place Three Alleged Pickpockets
in Adams County Jail for Memorial Day Work.

Three pickpockets were arrested in Gettysburg Tuesday through the vigilance of Officers Charles H. Wilson and Mead, of the Western Maryland Railway, and Chief Shealer, of Gettysburg. The men gave their names as Harry Bradford, Eli Caplin and Joseph Horn. It is well established that "Bradford's" name is Plummer. He claims Pittsburg as his home.

Caplin and Horn had letters addressed to them at a number of towns but gave Baltimore as their place of residence.

The first arrest was made by Chief Shealer when he caught Plummer, after a chase, near the Reaser furniture factory. Plummer had taken a pocket book from J. A. Johnson, of Wilmington, Delaware, on a trolley car while it was standing in front of the Eagle Hotel. The pickpocket left the car followed by the man who chased him up Chambersburg street, down the alley at the City Hotel and from there to the Western Maryland station where Chief Shealer took up the chase, finally catching him along the tracks near the furniture factory. He was soon placed in the county jail.

When Chief Shealer searched him he found two ten dollar bills secreted in the heel of one of the man's stockings. He had dropped the pocketbook during the chase and its owner recovered the property.

Officers Wilson and Mead were on one of the excursion trains coming from Baltimore in the morning and learned of the presence of several pickpockets. One of them was said to have taken a purse from a passenger and after watching all day for the guilty parties Mr. Wilson apprehended them on one of the trains just as they were about to leave in the evening. The alleged pickpockets were taken to the county jail by Officer Wilson in George Eberhart's automobile. Search of the men failed to reveal anything but a little money and a watch on each, though there was nothing to indicate that these goods were stolen.

It will require several days to get witnesses here in these cases and a hearing will then be given the prisoners. Their photographs were taken today. Little else was doing in police circles Memorial Day except the arrest of these men and six drunks who were put in the lock up for several hours.

BUCHANAN VALLEY

Buchanan Valley, May 31.—Mrs. Clara Clatterback, of Virginia, a sister of Mrs. John F. Dillon and youngest daughter of John Cole, Sr., deceased, and son, John Clatterback, visited in Franklin and Adams counties among relatives. The family were former residents of the Valley leaving here in 1877 for Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cramer, of Chambersburg, are spending a short time at the home of Samuel D. Irvin. Miss Mary Dillon, of the sanatorium, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Dillon.

BRICK WORKS BURNED

Five frame buildings connected with the $35,000 plant of the Hancock Shale and Brick Company, were entirely destroyed by a fire about 11 o'clock Monday morning at Hancock. The machinery in the plant was the most expensive obtainable, the brick press alone costing $7,000. It is thought the fire started in the engine room. The output of the plant was 18,000 bricks daily. The firm had orders enough to run them throughout the summer. There was fire in one of the kilns. It is thought the loss will be very heavy, but the exact amount will not be known until it is learned to what extent the machinery is damaged. There is $7,000 insurance on the buildings.

COUNTY MAN HAS SMALL POX

Chambersburg Repository says: A man named Wagaman, of Adams county, who visited the Wagaman family at Pottsville, is now a victim of the smallpox.

H. B. Moats, of Tomstown, whose wife has the disease and who broke quarantine and ridiculed the idea of her having smallpox, was reported to the health officers here today by Dr. Hunter as having a fine case himself now.

By permission of the health officers Dr. W. E. Holland took photographs from a safe distance of the worst cases in Pottsville. Several of them are confluent smallpox, the worst type and very marked cases at that, the pustules on the arms having run together into one sore.

THERE will be a festival held at Guernsey on Saturday, June 3, on the school ground. All invited to come and have a good time.

SUIT AGAINST TOWN Y.M.C.A.

Officers and Directors of Town Association Sued by Mrs. Brady for Malicious Prosecution and False Arrest.

Emma M. Brady, through her attorney, J. L. Butt, Esq., brought suit in Adams County Court this morning to recover damages for malicious prosecution and false arrest. The suit is brought by Mrs. Brady against George Hartman, George Fissel, M. K. Eckert, Will M. Seligman, John Blocher, Jr., Edgar Faber, Jr., and Edgar L. Dear-dorf as individuals and as officers and members of the Gettysburg Young Men's Christian Association.

Mr. Butt has not filed his statement and has thirty days in which to do it. It is probable, however, that it will be filed within a week or two and the amount of damages claimed will then be stated. It is likely that it will be in the neighborhood of $1000.

This is the latest development in "The King's Carnival" which has proved to be more of an entertainment than originally planned. Miss McCloskey, the trainer, and Mrs. Brady, her aide, are still in Gettysburg and will probably remain several days longer until all matters pertaining to the suit are decided. They are very anxious that the stigma which attaches to them on account of the "recent unpleasantness" may be removed before proceeding with their professional work.

Their next engagement booked was Martinsburg, West Virginia, but this had to be postponed in order to allow matters here to be arranged.

BRYSONIA

Brysonia, May 31.—George Fohl has put up a new summer house.

Mrs. Ira Taylor and twin daughters, Marie and Myrna, spent a day recently with her sister, Mrs. Clayton Bosserman.

Abram Hoffman and wife, of Arendtsville, spent a day with his daughter, Mrs. Clayton Bosserman.

Miss Ella Thomas spent Saturday afternoon with Mrs. S. J. Taylor.

Mrs. Blaine Warren and daughter, Kathleen, of Bendersville, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Taylor.

Myron Morrison received fifty cards on his seventh birthday, May 26, for which he thanks his big and little friends very much.

The corn crop looks as if it will be a poor one in this section. The farmers are planting their corn over again and some are plowing down their grass fields and putting corn in.

Roy Hoke, wife and two children spent Sunday afternoon with George Showers and wife.

HORSE HAD RABIES

A horse belonging to Harry Heck, of Wolf Hill, died Tuesday from rabies. It is supposed that the horse came in contact with the dog of George S. Schmidt, Esq., of York, which was killed near Barlow several weeks ago and which caused a quarantine to be placed on York, Hanover and a number of York county townships while Adams county was also visited by state officials. The horse was quarantined by Dr. E. D. Hudson as soon as it was seen that it was suffering from rabies and no other animals are known to have been bitten. It is said, however, that a Mr. Fissel, of Harrisburg, was bitten by the horse while he was trying to care for it.

CHANGED THEIR MINDS

A Waynesboro couple called on Clerk of the Courts Thomas on Tuesday to secure a marriage license. The official was preparing to make out the necessary papers when the groom remarked that he thought it was nearly train time. He was told he had over an hour but simply said "Oh, well I guess we'll come in some other day." The bride was not specially enthusiastic about getting a license either and so they left town without being married.

"PYROX" combines non-burning Arsenal of Lead (Bowker's Dispersant) with non-burning Bordeaux Mixture—both thoroughly tried out remedies—in the shape of a dense heavy, creamy paste that looks like paint, is easily mixed with cold water, and sticks like paint to the foliage. SLIM CROWD FOR MEMORIAL DAY

Gettysburg Had only One Half the Number of Visitors of One Year ago. Usual Features. One of Speakers Unable to be Present.

Memorial Day 1911 brought to Gettysburg only one half as many visitors as one year ago. The crowd in town on Tuesday was estimated at 3500 while the figures in 1910 aggregated 7000. On Tuesday the Western Maryland brought to Gettysburg 2700 as compared to 5530 last year. The Reading brought 350, about the same number as before. The balance of the crowd was made up of those who drove to town and came in automobiles.

The day was like all other Memorial Days in Gettysburg. There were the customary parade and exercises. From early morning until sun down the fakirs made themselves heard, the refreshment stand keepers were busy, all business places in town were on the go, the town was hot and dirty, and a little rain fell.

The parade was conducted in the usual manner, the only new features being the presence in line of the Boy Scouts and the two degree teams of the patriotic orders. The Scouts' appearance was very favorably commented upon. They were all in full uniform and looked as though they would do the town credit in their march on Washington which starts next week. The degree teams of the Patriotic Order Sons of America and the Order of Independent Americans were in full uniform and were a good feature in the parade.

The school children went to the cemetery early and were compelled to wait for some time for the parade before they could do their usual flower strewing. Rain fell for a little while but not enough to do any harm. Following the Post services the pretty strewing ceremony took place though it is generally conceded that the picture is not as pretty as it used to be before the flags over each grave made it necessary for the strewing parties to march along the sides of the granite slabs instead of sweeping down the semi-circle.

The Sons of Veterans fired the salute and taps were sounded, after which the ceremonies at the rostrum took place. Dr. T. C. Billheimer presided, and Rev. L. Dow Ott offered prayer.

The principal address of the day was made by Colonel Willis G. Emerson, of Los Angeles, California, who said in part:

"On this day of sacred memories it is fitting to express an abiding belief that soon international arbitration, industrial arbitration and universal peace will be added to the wreaths and blossoms that cling to humanity's cross.

"The Civil War was without precedent for the grandeur of its significance, the vastness of its resource, the stern tenacity of its combatants.

"It was a contest, not of regular armies to gratify dynastic ambition or to extend ruthless conquest, but of American citizens, self-organized into contending hosts to maintain conflicting principles held with equal sincerity and defended with equal valor.

It was Henry Ward Beecher, who, while addressing an excited, tumultuous audience in Manchester, England, during the Civil War, after frequent interruptions, was challenged with this question, 'Why haven't you Yankees put down the Rebellion in sixty days, as you said you would?'—to which Mr. Beecher replied, as if by inspiration:—'Because we are fighting Americans, and not Britishers.'

"That was the secret of the prolonged struggle. It was a war involving the best fighting blood in the world."

Rev. J. W. Hill, of New York, was to have made an address but was detained by illness. Dr. George Edward Reed, of Carlisle, a personal friend of Dr. Hill, was called on in his stead and spoke briefly of the need of patriots in civic life today being just as keen as for patriots in the stirring times of '61-'65. J. L. Williams, Esq., read Lincoln's Gettysburg Address and the Citizens' Band played the Star Spangled Banner, the exercises being concluded with the benediction by Dr. J. A. Clutz.

GETTYSBURG 3 DICKINSON 2

Old Rivals of Local College Taken into Camp in Well Played Ten Inning Game. Dickinson Scores on Misplays.

Gettysburg College base ball team delighted its supporters Tuesday by winning from Dickinson on Nixon Field in a ten inning contest 3 to 2. The game was one of the best and most exciting seen here this year.

Dickinson opened in the first by getting a run on an error, a stolen base and an over-throw. Gettysburg held them safe until the fifth when Dickinson added another, errors again contributing to the score. Gettysburg's half of the sixth tied the score. Gilman hit safe, stole second and scored on a single by Doty. Doty going to second and scoring on an outfield error.

In the ninth Gettysburg had men on second and third with only one out but Dickinson doubled on a bunt by catching Gilman at home.

The tenth opened with Beaver, getting a hit. Empfield got a base on balls and Gilman who was running for Beaver scored when Dickinson's short stop threw wild to first to catch Brumbaugh.

Beaver held Dickinson to two hits one of which was in the infield. Gettysburg batted well, Empfield, Gilman and Beaver each having two hits and Doty one. Empfield, out of four times at bat, got to base every time but was always left. The game drew an average crowd.

ELECTED TEACHER

The Board of Directors of Union Independent School, Oxford township, elected their teacher, Miss Margaret C. Lawrence, for the coming session.

BOWKER'S "PYROX" is something more than a combination of Arsenate of Lead and Bordeaux. It is a mixture with reliability and brains behind it: a mixture with laboratory and field experience to support it; a mixture made by careful methods in a modern plant under expert supervision. Such a combination costs more to make and is worth more to buy because of the insurance the name affords against haphazard preparations. Bear in mind that it is always a success that is imitated; but "Pyrox" like every other success has a long lead, and the buyer gets his money's worth in more ways than one.

THE spring shopping season is now here, go to Baltimore June 1st.

FIND BURNED BODY IN TUB

Sex Not Known, But Husband of Missing Woman is Arrested.

New York, May 31.—The police have another bathtub murder mystery, and as the first step in its elucidation they are trying to learn whether the victim was a man or a woman.

The difficulty in identification arises from the fact that the body is badly burned by a chemical, in which it was half immersed when found in the bathtub at an unoccupied flat in East Seventy-eighth street.

The last occupants of the flat were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Scheib. The wife has not been seen in the neighborhood for a month and Scheib was placed under arrest.

When Scheib was told that his wife had been murdered he exclaimed: "My God, that's not my work!" His story was that he and his wife had quarreled and she had left him. To explain her absence he told the other tenants that she had gone to visit relatives in Cleveland, and although he did not occupy the rooms, he continued to pay the rent in the hope that she would return.

Scheib is a chauffeur, aged thirty-one years. His wife, aged twenty-two years, was Miss Lillian Olevier, and she lived for several years at Holyoke, Mass.

CHARRED BONES MAY BE THOSE OF GIRL

Find Causes Excitement and Doctors Make Examination.

New Bloomfield, Pa., May 31.—The village of Ickersburg and the towns of Perry county were excited by the announcement that state policemen engaged in a search for four-year-old Alice Arnold, who has been missing for a week, had found a heap of charred bones beside a partially burned log a mile from the homestead of the family.

The bones were badly charred, but sufficient pieces were found to warrant an investigation being made by physicians.

There is doubt whether the bones are those of a girl or of some animal killed by hunters and burned at a camp fire. The location is in a section frequented by hunters.

At first there was an attempt to keep the find secret, but the fact became known and scores of people flocked to the town, morbidly curious to see the bits of bone.

Dr. J. T. Bryner is engaged in a detailed examination and upon his finding may depend a solution of the mystery.

The state policemen will give no opinions as to what they believe has taken place and District Attorney Rice says he is as much in the dark as ever. No tangible evidence of foul play has been secured.

At the request of the police, Sylvester Long, the Indian trader, will be sent to the town again in order to run down some additional clues which have been brought to their attention.

BRYAN ATTACKS WOOL DUTY

Assails Party Program to Retain Tariff on Product.

Washington, May 31.—William Jennings Bryan took exception to the program of his party in the house and criticized sharply the majority of the Democrats who have agreed to support the revised tariff schedule on wool and woolen goods.

The criticism is contained in a statement made public through Representative Harrison, of New York. Chairman Underwood, of the ways and means committee, contented himself with the declaration that despite Mr. Bryan's stand the revised tariff would go through the Democratic caucus by a two-thirds majority.

Graft General Sent to Prison.

Moscow, May 31.—Major General Rheinboldt was sentenced by the senate tribunal to imprisonment for one year and the loss of his civil rights for the misappropriation of government funds during his term as governor of Moscow. Statesville, N. C., May 31.—Confessing to the murder of his sixteen-year-old wife, to whom he was married four months ago, Reuben Combs, a young farmer, of Stony Point, Iredell county, was committed to jail without bail by a coroner's jury. Strychnine was found in her stomach.

REASON RULE TAFT'S POLICY

Cabinet Member Attacks Dissent of Justice Harlan.

OIL DECISION IS CITED

Statement Declares Harlan Did Not Always Object to "Rule of Reason" and Immigration Act is Quoted.

Washington, May 31.—That the government means to formulate its anti-trust policies in accord with the "rule of reason" as laid down by the supreme court in the Standard Oil and tobacco trust decisions, notwithstanding the vigorous dissents of Associate Justice Harlan and the large number of bills introduced in the senate to amend the Sherman anti-trust law, was made evident.

Administration officials, after a study of the tobacco decision and a thorough comparison with the Standard Oil decision, were agreed that "the rule of reason" is no new feature of the supreme court's interpretation of law, and one member of the cabinet, whose views have always been regarded as reflecting those of the administration, made a comprehensive statement to that effect.

The statement was attributed to "an official close to the administration." It follows in part:

"Justice Harlan in his dissenting opinion in the tobacco case objects vigorously to the application in the construction of the act of congress of the 'rule of reason' to which attention was called by the chief justice in his opinion in the Standard Oil case and again in the tobacco case.

"Justice Harlan declares that to insert by construction the word 'unreasonable' or 'undue' in the Sherman act is judicial legislation. Congress, he says, has in language so clear and simple that there is no room whatever for construction, signified its purpose to forbid every restraint of trade in whatever form, to whatever extent, whereas the court, under the chief justice's opinion, inserts the law words which make congress say that it means only to prohibit 'undue' restraint of trade. This he objects to as amounting to a reading into the act by judicial legislation of an exception not placed there by the law-making branch of the government, and this, he contends, the court cannot and ought not to do.

"But Justice Harlan has not always regarded the judicial function as excluding the right to interpret statutes in the light of reason and to refuse a literal application to the words of the act where that would involve a manifest wrong. In the case of Church of the Holy Trinity against United States the court had under consideration the act of congress known as the alien immigration act, passed Feb. 26, 1885.

"The Church of the Holy Trinity in New York had made a contract with Rev. E. Walpole Warren, an alien residing in England, to remove to New York and enter into its service as its rector and pastor for a compensation to be paid to him, and because of that contract an action was brought against the church by the United States to recover the penalty prescribed for a violation of this act. Justice Brewer wrote the opinion of the court, in which all the other justices, including Justice Harlan, concurred. He promised by conceding:

"That the act of the corporation is within the letter of this section, for the relation of rector to his church is one of service and implies labor on the one side, with compensation on the other."

"He further noted that certain specific exceptions made in the act in which clergymen were not included, strengthened the idea that every other kind of labor and service was intended to be reached by the statute. Yet notwithstanding all of that it was said that the court could not think that congress intended to denounce with penalties a transaction like the employment of a Christian minister.

"The decision in the case of the Church of the Holy Trinity clearly demonstrates that no new principle is introduced by the rule of construction adopted by the court in both the Standard Oil and the tobacco cases, but that the same rule was applied there which has often been applied before of reading general words in a statute by the light of the reason for the enactment of the statute, the history of the evil which gave rise to the legislation and the purpose for which the legislation was enacted, and the further duty to give to the words of a statute, if possible, an interpretation which, while accomplishing the result which the statute was enacted to bring about, will avoid the untoward consequences which would necessarily follow a narrow and literal interpretation of its meaning."

A resolution calling upon the attorney general to inform the house whether he has undertaken criminal prosecution of the American Tobacco company and its officers was introduced by Representative Byrns, of Tennessee. If such prosecution has not been instituted, the attorney general is requested to explain his reasons.

HOLD UP COLONEL GOETHAL

Refuse to Let Him Yeave Steamer With Luggage.

New Orleans, May 31.—When Colonel George W. Goethals, chief engineer of the Panama canal, arrived from the isthmus aboard the steamship Atenas customs officials refused to let him leave the dock with his luggage.

Colonel Goethals returned to his cabin, thoroughly displeased, where he remained until after breakfast. The immigration officers, apprised of his coming by wireless, sent a special officer to meet the Atenas and to assist Colonel Goethals getting ashore.

The customs men, however, not recognizing the colonel, requested him to await the arrival of Captain Miles, of the customs service, with instructions. When the official arrived the colonel was so angry he refused to leave his berth.

THAT LOTTERY TICKET

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.

One day a tramp who was plainly on his last legs staggered into the village of Scottsville and dropped down in the street in front of the tavern. He was carried into the hostelry and a doctor sent for, and in two days he was dead. The verdict at the inquest was that he had died from sickness and exposure.

When the coroner overhauled the dead wayfarer's pockets he found lots of simple things and a ticket in a Prussian lottery. This ticket was in an envelope and had been kept clean. It was for a quarterly drawing that would not take place for nine weeks yet, and according to its face it might draw a prize of $25,000. No one in Scottsville had ever seen such a ticket before, and very little was said or thought about it for three or four days, or until a certain New York drummer came to town on one of his trips. He was appealed to for information, and his reply was:

"Well, I guess yes. I've bought them myself, though I've never had any luck. Why, I've known four different men who have drawn fortunes in that lottery. It's backed by the Prussian government and is as good as forty national banks."

The drummer created an instant excitement about that ticket. It started right in as a main topic of conversation and held the place. Then a lightning rod man came along and offered $100 cash for it. He knew three men who got their start in life by drawing large sums in that very lottery.

Three days later a hog drover came along and made an offer of $250 for the ticket. According to his story, one of the members of the beef trust got his first $1,000 from that very lottery. Then a tin peddler offered his whole outfit for the ticket, and the town of Scottsville began to buzz. Of a sudden the landlord of the tavern demanded possession of the ticket, to have and to hold until the debt to him had been paid. A tramp had died in his house. He had put in a bill to the town for $3, but on thinking it over had concluded that $100 was little enough. The coroner was an honest man, but he might get drowned in the mill pond and the ticket soaked to a pulp.

The carpenter who had made the five dollar coffin jumped his claim to $30 and demanded that he be protected by having the ticket turned over to him. The sexton followed suit. The doctor in the case who had administered only one dose of medicine had not made out his bill yet, but when he did it would be for at least $50. It was a case that had bothered him, and he couldn't afford to be bothered for less than half a hundred.

Then came a day when Scottsville was almost swept off its feet and left gasping for breath. Along came a Mr. Jones, a cattle and hog buyer. He was no old sport, but he knew a good thing when he saw it. He always invested in that lottery. He had bought that ticket in the city. He had lost it on the road, and a tramp had found it. He must be handed his property or there would be such a row as that part of the state had never heard of. Mr. Jones was a good bluffer, but when it came to taking an oath he faltered and was run out of town.

Then there came a deacon of the church from a village a few miles away. He came in humility and shame, but still he came. His village wanted a new church building, but the members of that particular faith were poor in purse. It had worried them, but it worried the deacon worst of all. He had figured every way he could, but could see no light until he saw the advertisement of that lottery. He turned to it as a saving clause. He sent money and got the ticket. It was against his conscience, and he told nobody of it. Whatever money the ticket drew was to be freely given to the erection of the new church. This was no doubt the true story of the ticket, which had been stolen from the deacon's house by the tramp, but had it been ten times true it would not have been handed over to him.

The day before the drawing, when it did not seem that the excitement could go higher without exploding something, the drummer and the lightning rod man returned. They bid against each other for the ticket. Perhaps they understood each other, but their faces were very grave as the bidding stopped at $700. Then a huge bonfire had to be built to relieve the strain. Few slept that night, and next day a public purse was made up to send a messenger to the city for news of the drawing. He didn't take the ticket with him—oh, no! That would be taken later on by a crowd of honest and determined men, each one armed to the teeth.

At the end of the third day the messenger returned. He was cheered. He was assisted from the stage with tender hands. He was assisted to mount a barrel, and then the crowd fell away and waited for his words. He calmly looked about him and then calmly said:

"Feller—citizens. That 'ere ticket"—

"Thirty seconds of awful suspense."

"That 'ere ticket didn't draw a darned thing!"

One wild, long drawn yell of disappointment and anger and terror, one long hour of kicks and cuffs and reprisals, one awful night in which infants shuddered, and then Scottsville was herself again.

GRANDMOTHERS USED SAGE TEA

To Darken the Hair and Restore Gray and Faded Hair to Its Natural Color.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the vision of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair and are fast following suit.

The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready-to-use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. As a scalp tonic and color restorer this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers. This remedy is sold under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

Remarkable Record

Flesh-forming Food That Succeeds Nearly Every Time.

A man or woman might as well starve outright as to take food into the stomach and not have it assimilated, yet in Gettysburg as well as in every other town and city, there are many people who are thin, pale and seem underfed, simply because the food they eat is not assimilated, and fails to make good blood and firm flesh.

Samose, the wonderful flesh-forming food, taken before or after meals, mingles with the food, so that it is assimilated by the system and makes rich blood and pleasing plumpness.

Anyone who is thin, weak, cravvy and emaciated can put 50c on deposit with People's Drug Store and take home a box of Samose. If the treatment does not give a noticeable increase in good, firm flesh and restore strength and health, they will return the money without any questions.

HARROUN WINS BIG MOTOR RACE

Captures 500-Mile Contest In 6 Hrs., 41 Mins., 8 Secs.

MULFORD IN SECOND PLACE

One Man Killed and Four Injured In Bitterly Contested Struggle at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 31. — Ray Harroun, in a Marmon 32, is the winner of the International 500-mile automobile race, and when Starter Joe Wagner waved his flag over Harroun as he passed under the wire, thus declaring him the winner, the crowd went wild, rushed out on the track, took the driven from the car and carried him about the course on their shoulders.

Ralph Mulford, in a Lozier, was a close second, and David Bruce-Brown in a Fiat was third. Wishart in a Mercedes, was fourth; De Palma, in a Simplex, fifth; Charles Merz, in a National, sixth; W. M. Turner, in an Amplex, seventh; Harry Cobe, in a Jackson, eighth; Fred Betcher, in a Knox, ninth; Hugh C. Hughes, in a Mercer, tenth; Lee Frazer, in a Firestone, eleventh, and Gil Anderson, in a Stutz, twelfth.

The time for the 500 miles was 6:41.8, an average of close to seventy-five miles an hour for the entire race. As the contest drew to a close only twenty-eight of the forty cars which had started remained in the race. One after another they had become disabled and dropped out.

The man who was killed in the race was S. P. Dickson, mechanic for Arthur Greiner, of Chicago, driving an Amplex car. He lost his life in an upset on the back stretch in the thirtieth mile of the race. Greiner sustained several broken ribs and a fractured arm. He is expected to recover.

The accident was due to the car casting a front tire. Greiner could not hold the car to the track and it skidded to the infield and whirled completely around, tearing off both back wheels. Dickson was thrown twenty feet against a fence. His body was terribly cut and bruised. Greiner was hurled to the track.

Sets New Record.

Bruce-Brown, in his Fiat, who was leading at the end of the first 150 miles, but who was displaced soon after, established a record for the distance, 1:59.12. The old mark was 2:01.00, set by Dawson at Atlanta last year.

The cars were strung out behind the leaders all around the course. The scorching pace burned out the tires and most of the cars had stopped one or more times at the pits for tire changes. Several of the older drivers apparently preferred to keep up a steady grind two or three laps behind the leaders. There were few sensational brush wars for leadership in the field.

Aiken, in a National, was the first to get away. In the first lap the cars strung out all around the course. Aiken held the lead, with De Palma (Simplex) second, and Wishart (Mercedes) third.

At the end of fifty miles Aiken held the lead. His time was 41 minutes and 7 seconds. Bruce-Brown was second, De Palma third.

After the fifty mile mark was passed Bruce-Brown slipped into the lead. The first car to stop at the pit for repairs was the Buick, driven by Arthur Chevrolet. He had tire trouble and lost a few minutes making a change. Wishart (Mercedes) blew a front tire and went to the pit. He was off again in a minute.

Harry Grant, twice winner of the Vanderbilt, was forced to withdraw his Alco car at the end of the 108th mile because of a burned-out bearing.

Dave Lewis, mechanic in a Lozier car, driven by Teddy Tetzlaff, sustained a fractured leg when the car blew a tire in the home stretch in the 170th mile, and ran into a Pope-Hartford. Tetzlaff was uninjured and the crew of the Pope-Hartford also escaped. Louis Disbrow was driving the Pope-Hartford.

The Lozier was overturned and the rear truck was torn off the Pope-Hartford in the collision. Both cars were taken out of the race.

Mix-Up In Front of Grand Stand.

In a mix-up of Lytle's Apperson, Knight's Westcott and Jagersberger's Case, directly in front of the grand stand, John Glover, Knight's mechanic suffered an injury to the spine. The others of the three crews escaped anything more serious than bruises by a wonderfully fortunate set of circumstances.

The throng in the grand stand rose to its feet when it appeared that the crews of the cars must be crushed to death in the crash. A woman sitting in a box dropped from her chair in a faint.

Wagner, the starter, risked his own life by running out on the track and directing the trailing drivers out of the way of the wrecked Case. Larssonneur, the mechanic, lay dazed in the center of the track for a full minute while cars darted by at either side of him. Then he unsteadily rose to his feet and staggered blindly. The crowd screamed at him "Look out!" The man then steadied himself and limped to the side of the track.

PRIZE BULL BRINGS RECORD BID AT SALE

"Noble of Oakland" Sold For $15,000 at Auction.

Coopersburg, Pa., May 31.—"Noble of Oakland," a prize animal, brought the record price for a bull at the annual sale of cattle held on the stock farm of T. S. Cooper.

Dr. M. A. Scovall, of Lexington, Ky., bid $15,000 for "Noble of Oakland," and then gave $7000 for "Lady Viola," the high-priced bull's dam. It is thought that Dr. Scovall was acting for James Haggins, of the Kentucky experiment station.

All told Mr. Haggins bought twenty head of bulls, cows and heifers for $25,500. The second highest purchaser at the sale was T. DeWitt Cuyler, of Paoli, Pa., who bought a bull for $6700 and seven cows at $1750 each.

A total of 164 head were sold, including 18 bulls, 85 cows, 45 heifers, 9 bull calves and 7 heifer calves, for $125,515.

Fully 5600 persons journeyed to this quiet little Lehigh county village to witness the big annual Cooper cattle sale of pure bred Isle of Jersey stock. This sale annually attracts scores of cattlemen and breeders of pure stock from all parts of America.

Before sunrise hundreds of farmers residing within a radius of miles were on their way to the Cooper estate. Hundreds of automobiles were parked on the spacious lawns and all treks leading to the farm were packed with persons anxious to catch a glimpse of the highest priced cattle in the world.

Other prominent breeders beside Dr. Scovall who attended the sale were: H. D. Rodman, of Louisville, Ky.; W. R. Sporn, of Shelbyville, Ky.; W. R. Goodwin, Chicago; E. H. Chapman, of Albany, N. Y.; B. L. V. Duree, Worcester, Mass.; R. R. Fleming, of Toronto, Ont.; George M. Laughlin, Kulpville, Mo.; Douglass Green, of Torrington, N. Y.; and Gordon Hall, of Hallow, Kent, England.

NATION'S LAWS ARE OUTWORN

Col. Roosevelt Makes Stirring Address in Newark.

UNVEILS LINCOLN STATUE

Former President Asserts Statutes Are Excellent For "Flintlock Period"—Must Keep Up to Changed Conditions.

Newark, N. J., May 31.—Former President Theodore Roosevelt made his first appearance at a public function in Newark, where he was the orator at the unveiling of the statue of Lincoln.

The statue was erected through the generosity of the late Amos H. Van Horn, a veteran of the Civil War, who in his will left the sum of $25,000 for that purpose.

Colonel Roosevelt accepted the statue in the name of the Lincoln post and the city. He delivered a stirring address on the man whom the monument commemorates and urged his hearers to follow in Lincoln's footsteps.

"They were excellent laws for the flintlock period," the former president asserted, "but they do not apply to present day conditions. Little you soldiers could have done with flintlocks in the war days.

"The laws must keep up with the changed conditions, retaining the spirit of liberty and justice, curbing the greed of the conscienceless rich and banishing anarchy.

"It is a poor thing to praise the deeds of the soldiers or the deeds of Lincoln if we do not emulate them in legislation. We must have clean politics and clean business and we must respect the rights of labor or be recreant to the spirit of Lincoln."

Touching upon peace by arbitration, he expressed his approval of it, but only in case righteousness prevailed. Peace without righteousness would be intolerable, he said. In a choice he insisted the republic would stand for righteousness at any cost.

"It is our business to help the wage earner and it is our business to put a stop to murderous violence even if it is indulged in nominally to achieve those ends."

SCHOOLING THE FILIPINOS

Chancellor MacCracken Says Educational System Is Good.

New York, May 31.—Henry M. MacCracken, chancellor emeritus of New York university, who has returned after a year's tour of the Far East, has this to say of the public schools in the Philippines:

"The schools there are in good shape and follow closely the lines adopted in Japan. In India the educational system is not so good. Children between the ages of seven and twelve years there have but little opportunity to learn, whereas in Japan education is compulsory at that age. Compulsory education will, I believe, soon be adopted in the Philippines."

The doctor said that the unrest among the people in India was very marked, and there seems to be a strong undercurrent of hostility to England.

AVIATOR FALLS 150 FEET

Escapes With a Few Bruises, But Machine Is Wrecked.

Hempstead, N. Y., May 31.—Henry Moore, of Union Hill, N. J., flying in a Curtiss biplane, fell over 150 feet, and his only injuries were a few scratches and bruises, his machine being a total wreck.

Moore had climbed a cross-country flight and was between 150 and 200 feet in the air, when his motor suddenly stopped. He fell like a shot to the ground, landing in a cabbage field.

Woman's Throat Cut.

Webster, Pa., May 31.—When John Stevenson was awakened and went downstairs to ascertain the reason he fell over the body of his stepdaughter, Mrs. Susan Wentz, aged twenty-eight, which was lying across the foot of the stairs with her throat cut. A door leading to the outside stood ajar, but there was no trace of the slayer. Stevenson said that Mrs. Wentz was all right when he and his wife retired, but the couple is being held pending an investigation.

San Francisco, May 31.—Michael Korlath, formerly president and manager of a bank at Windber and Scal Level, Pa., was arrested here on a charge of embezzlement. The arrest was made on information that Korlath embezzled $20,000 from the bank he conducted. Korlath denied that he had been guilty of appropriating the funds of the bank, declaring he has real estate which will make restitution for any loss to depositors.

YOUNG FOLKS' CLUBS.

Constitution Suggested For Their Organization.

There are several hundred boys and girls' clubs in New York state already organized for their instruction in farming and farm methods. Other states are taking up the work and excellent results are anticipated. It would seem that juvenile granges, where organized, could well adopt the constitution below outlined as a part of their work for the summer season.

The constitution as here printed is flexible and may be adapted to differing local needs. We commend it particularly to subordinate granges to work out something of real benefit to the boys and girls in their members' homes.

CONSTITUTION.

Article I.—Name and Object.

Section 1. Name. This organization shall be known as the — club.

Sec. 2. Objects. The objects of this club shall be:

(a) To make the young people of our town better acquainted with each other.

(b) To organize contests of various kinds among the members.

(c) To hold annually an exhibition of the crops and handwork included in the contest.

Article II.—Membership.

Section 1. Membership. The membership of the club shall consist of two classes—(a) active; (b) associate. The active membership shall consist of boys and girls who will faithfully engage in the work of the club and enter one or more of the contests each year. The associate membership shall consist of such people as are interested in the objects of the club and will assist in carrying on the work.

Article III.—Meetings.

Section 1. Meetings. The meetings of the club shall be:

(a) An annual meeting for the election of officers and the transaction of annual business at the time and place of holding the annual exhibition.

(b) Special meetings for educational and business purposes may be held at the call of the president.

Article IV.—Officers.

Section 1. Officers. The officers of the club shall be a president, vice president, secretary, treasurer and an advisory committee, consisting of the teachers of the local grange and the superintendent of schools of the town in which the club is located.

Sec. 2. Duties of officers. The duties of the various officers shall be such as are usually performed by such officers in similar organizations. The advisory committee shall arrange for public contests and exhibitions, the procuring and awarding of prizes and the reporting of statistics and other information.

Article V.—Change of Constitution.

Section 1. This constitution may be changed at any annual meeting of the club by a two-thirds vote of all members present and voting.

Blank applications for membership have also been got out in which the applicant indicates his desire to join the club and agrees to follow all the rules of membership and contests. Blank space is left for signature; also for age, town, school-teacher and postoffice address.

MAINE GRANGES.

Asked to Assist in Securing Better Seed For Maine Farmers.

The chief of the agronomy department of the University of Maine is asking the assistance of the granges in that state in his efforts to secure better seed and consequently larger cereal crops. In a circular letter to the granges Professor H. G. Bell asks that each grange forward to him the ten best ears of corn that have been grown in the vicinity of the grange during the past summer and also the best peck of oats produced in the same locality. The agronomy department is putting in a system of demonstration plots on the university farm and in this system wishes to plant individual plots of oats and of corn which have been forwarded by different granges. During the summer the plots will be growing side by side, clearly labeled, so that it will be possible for visiting grangers to compare the products of their seed with that of their neighbor granges. In the autumn the crops will be carefully harvested and careful records taken of the yield and quality. A copy of the complete report will be forwarded to each grange and we feel sure will be of sufficient importance to claim the grangers' attention at their seed meeting.

Grange News and Notes.

North Andover (Mass.) grange is occupying its new grange hall, which cost $7,000.

The next meeting of the Pennsylvania state grange will be held in Scranton, Dec. 12-15.

J. J. Thomas, a grange pioneer of Cambria county, Pa., died recently. He served several terms in the state legislature.

State Master Godfrey of New York is conducting schools of instruction in the unwritten work in each grange county in the state. Much interest is manifested in these meetings.

A competitive drill between the women's degree team of the Springfield (Mass.) grange and a team of Pythian sisters connected with the Knights of Pythias was won by the grange team. A large audience witnessed the evolutions.

The senate of the last congress by a vote of 54 to 33 defeated the resolution to amend the federal constitution to provide for the election of United States senators by direct vote. It has been introduced again at the present extra session. This is one of the things for which the grange has been contending these many years.

EXAMINATION PAPERS STOLEN

The questions to be asked at a college examination in England were stolen. Upon the detection of the robber depended the winning or losing of an important scholarship.

Sherlock Holmes was called into the case. He had but a few vague clues to work upon—namely, a pyramid of black clay, the marring of a table and a high window.

The guilty person was traced and made to confess. The story, fascinating and complete, will form an extra supplement in next Sunday's New York World. Order in advance.

RAISING LARGE LITTERS.

Good Blood With Proper Care Will Insure Success.

A large litter of heavy, vigorous pigs at weaning time is the foundation of profits. To secure it prolific sows and the boar must be selected. The boar must not be given over-service, and the pregnant sow must have the feed, exercise and care that will keep her in best health and condition and that will produce thrifty development in the unborn pigs.

The boar should serve a sow but once, and two sows a day should be the limit for a mature boar, and then he should have a day's rest after every second or third day. He should be used before being fed. Handled in this way a mature boar is sufficient for fifty sows. Over-service results in pigs that are dead, weak or puny at birth. Probably the greatest cause of pigs born dead or born so weak that they soon die is allowing the boar to run with the sows. It is a sure way of reducing the number raised in a litter and of reducing the profits.

A boar should not be used for much service until he is at least twelve months old. A fully matured boar produces the most vigorous pigs, other things being equal, and if properly fed and handled may be profitably kept for several years. His tusks should be cut or knocked off as often as they show considerable size.

Mark the sow when bred and record the date so that she can be separated from the other sows and become accustomed to her farrowing quarters two weeks before the pigs are due.

While pregnant the sow should be given muscle and bone making feeds that will develop in the unborn pigs size and strong vital organs. When the sow has good alfalfa pasture only a small quantity of grain is needed. The sow should be kept in good flesh, but not fat. A heavy condition of flesh is favorable if it is put on with muscle making feeds and the sow has been given ample exercise. Under-feeding is extremely detrimental. The pigs from a half starved sow are weak and undersized at birth and are stunted while suckling from lack of sufficient milk.

Sows fed much corn while pregnant make poor mothers, do not give a full supply of milk, are likely to be clumsy, and the pigs are often small and weak. Peas, shorts, tankage, skim milk and alfalfa, clover, cowpeas, peanut hay and pasture are the feeds to give the sow for developing strong pigs at birth.—Kansas Farmer.

Hum of the Hive.

It is not good policy to thin honey in any way—in fact, most consumers of honey like it as thick as they can get it.

By some seedsmen sweet clover is catalogued as Bokhara or bee clover. It is a fine thing for bees, as the flowers secrete a fine quality of nectar and large amounts of it.

A man who knows "all about bees" and does not believe that anything more can be gained by reading bee journals, books on bees, etc., will soon be far behind the age.

Honey is becoming more and more generally used as a food and holds its own in price, and with the advance in price of all other foodstuffs there is no reason why it should not bring a higher price.

Bees may be fed a sirup in small quantities made of half granulated sugar and half water, either hot or cold process—hot preferred—and fed warm in an Alexander or Boardman feeder. The Alexander is handier, safer and less liable to encourage robbing. The bees should be fed about sundown and about one pint per day.

The first few flights that the bees have in the spring determined to a great extent their power for the future harvest. The weak among bees are disposed to be imposed upon by the stronger. Oftentimes when the bees take their first spring flights they find hives unguarded, some hives containing honey and no bees, etc., which they at once take possession of. Bees become frantic over stolen sweets, the same as some men become frantic over stolen money. The bees seem to follow the oft quoted law—the survival of the fittest makes the race stronger. Here is where the careless beekeeper often falls down. He allows the bees to rob each other, carrying disease from hive to hive, making an uproar in the apiary, becoming cross and causing bad neighbors, etc.

THE SELECTION OF GOOD DAIRY COWS

In an address before the Vermont Dairy association Professor Cook of New York said that after an experience of a lifetime he believed the only sure way to tell a good cow is to bring out the scales and Babcock test. One cow that came pretty near being eligible for the booby prize had to her credit 500 pounds of butter for the year. Professor Cook mentioned this to show how impossible it is to judge a cow entirely on her looks. As a man looks the dairy cow in the face she should show a good head and a fine eye, not too prominent. The lips should be strong and the nostrils large, with good openings. Strong lips indicate good digestion, and good nostrils indicate lung power. The cow should be wide between the front legs and have a good length of body.

Continuing, Professor Cook said: My experience is that a good dairy cow has good, heavy shoulders, not beefy, for, in fact, there should not be a bit of fat on a dairy cow.

The ribs should be far apart. The mammary veins do not always indicate what the cow will produce, but they come pretty close. Milk veins should be prominent and many of them. This indicates a good blood circulation. Contrary to the impression of many, there is no milk in the milk veins. They are filled with blood returning from the udder to the heart. I always like large milk veins or openings. I like to see milk veins on the udder.

The skin of the animal should be loose and snap back when released. Watch out for a thin, papery hide. Such an animal is likely to have poor digestion and be unable to reproduce herself. I never saw a hide too thick if it snapped back on quick release. I do not want a thin, small tail and do not take much stock in an extra long one. Many make a sad mistake in feeding cows too heavily before they freshen. They should be placed on a diet two weeks before parturition. It is a terrible shock to the cow when the blood flows from the fetus to the udder.

The Holstein cow Julie Abbecker Gerben, herewith shown, is thirteen years old and has in the past five years produced a sufficiently great amount of milk and butter fat so that from the proceeds her owner, C. A. Nelson of Waverly, Ia., has purchased and paid for a $2,000 automobile. Julie Abbecker Gerben produced last year 18,000 pounds of milk. There are just two reasons why she did—first, she is a good cow, well bred along dairy lines and having productive ancestry, and, second, she was properly cared for, given the proper feed in amounts and quality and stabled in a good barn.

As to the cow's udder, much can be told by the texture as to what will be done inside. It is a great mystery to know just why, how and when one cow does remarkable stunts at the pail while another does little or nothing.

There seems to be a peculiar functional activity with the udder of some cows to turn out a lot of work. They have the peculiar ability to take a lot of nourishment from the blood as it passes through the udder. That is why we urge farmers to select the cow with extra good circulation. If the milk veins are prominent on the abdomen and udder it indicates a good circulation and the probability that a lot of nourishment is being utilized through the udder. A soft, velvety or silky udder is as good an indication as I know of what is going on inside.

Cooking Feed Does Not Pay.

As a rule, cooking the feed for the cow depreciates the digestibility of the protein. At the Oregon experiment station Dithycombe & Bradley found that steaming both vetch and corn silage materially decreased the digestibility. Some starchy feed, like potatoes, often has its digestibility increased by cooking, but the preponderance of testimony is to the effect that it does not pay to cook feed for the dairy cow.

Often during a season of heavy rainfall and humid atmospheric conditions the danger to the potato crop from blight is great. To head this off the vines should be sprayed when about seven or eight inches high with a bordeaux solution, to which arsenate of lead may be added at the rate of a pound to twenty gallons of solution to kill potato bugs. If unfavorable weather conditions persist, a second spraying of the bordeaux should be given in an interval of ten days or two weeks.

TWO UNMITIGATED PESTS.

With every new springtime there recur most of the same old problems which tax our energy as well as our ingenuity. Among these may be mentioned the fly and the rat problem. These are two of the most unqualified and unmitigated pests with which the human family has to deal. The fly is chiefly an enemy to public health, the rat a destroyer of cereals and manufactured product to an extent that it is difficult to realize. Both will shortly begin to breed and multiply; hence any measures adopted at once to kill off the present members of the two nefarious tribes will be labor saving and very effective—the move in time that will save many later on. Two simple precautions will reduce the fly pest to a minimum. Kill all the hold-over flies on sight and screen and lime their breeding places, chiefly manure piles and cesspools. Saucers containing poison solutions made by wetting poisoned fly paper or by putting two teaspoonfuls of formalin solution in a saucer half full of sweetened water will help in keeping down the number. In this it is well to place some of the dope out of doors, by means of which hundreds of the flies will be killed before they get into the house. In checking the rat pest every known means should be employed. Of the poisons perhaps the best is a cornmeal dough in which one part of barytes has been mixed with nine parts of meal. This should be spread rather thin on shingles and placed where it will be accessible to the rats. Often a cage trap baited with beef, bacon or cheese will round up a lot of rats. We have seen sixteen caught in such a trap in a single night, from the great-grandmother down—the whole family. Soaking the careful in a pail of water ten or fifteen minutes will render the inmates perfectly harmless. In view of the fact that rats breed several times during the season the importance of giving 'em fits before they begin propagating will be appreciated.

THE WINDOW BOX.

For any readers living in cities and having no ground space for flower beds a window box may be arranged which will pay generously in the satisfaction it will give. To give best results the box for such purpose should be not less than eight inches deep, while if it is deeper it will be even better. It should be from eight to twelve inches wide and as long as one may desire. The box should have holes bored in the bottom to insure good drainage and should be filled with rich, mellow soil, with a generous amount of well rotted manure mixed in. Geraniums and marguerites are the most satisfactory plants for the window box, but ferns, petunias, feverfews and other plants of the same size will do well. Soil in such a box will dry out very rapidly, especially if it has a southern exposure; hence the watering of the plants it contains should be frequent.

CHEAP INSURANCE.

Grounding the wires of the pasture fence to protect the stock from the electrical discharges of summer storms is both a cheap and effective method of insurance and, aside from the loss which the killing of cattle by lightning involves, saves the sorry job of removing the hides and burying the carcasses of the best cows, steers and young horses. It may be, on the farm. The grounding of fence wires is easily done by punching a hole in the ground beside the posts at intervals of eight or ten rods and inserting a piece of wire to a depth of about fifteen inches. The part above ground should be so arranged that it will touch all of the wires composing the fence. When a lightning bolt strikes a fence fixed in this way the electric current is diverted into the ground, where it does no harm.

A DEFECT AND A REMEDY.

There is a celebrated Comice pear orchard in the valley in which the writer lives that for a number of years produced no fruit, without apparent cause, as conditions of soil and climate seemed to be favorable. Investigation following showed that the orchard did not bear because the blossoms of this particular variety are largely, if not entirely, sterile—that is, do not possess both stamens and pistils. Acting on this, a number of trees through the orchard were top grafted with Bartlett scions. As soon as these top grafts produced blossoms the orchard began to bear, and it has been a producer ever since. The same plan may be easily carried out in the case of individual pear trees by inserting two or three scions of a perfect blossoming variety.

DOESN'T KNOW BEANS.

A Harvard college professor has lately made the startling announcement that beans are hard to digest and contain little nourishment. It is fair to assume that the gentleman has never labored with his hands until his back ached and re-enforced his interior anatomy with a plate of delicious pork and beans, with sliced onions, boiled taters and brown bread for trimmings and, more than this, had "inside" information that the ration did him good for hours afterward and furnished him with a maximum of energy to do the same kind of work the next day. Granted—baked beans are no ration for a bookworm, a dyspeptic or a sallow cheeked college professor, but you can't beat them for the fellow who labors in the sun and in the wind.

Grow Your Potatoes Cheaper

IT COSTS TOO MUCH to use bug poisons and fungicides that are inferior or that bring no increase in the yield. The way to cheapen the cost of the crop is to get a larger one.

Bowker's Pyrox

DOES THIS IN TWO WAYS: FIRST it saves the crop from the bugs; and SECOND by preventing blight it prolongs the life of the plant at a time when every day means a larger potato—hence a larger yield.

THERE IS NO OTHER method,—no other material that has stood the test of practical every day use by practical every day men so well and so uniformly as Pyrox. The word
